

ABSTRACT

Nilakusuma. 2013. "Description of Student Learning Styles Education Program Geography Department of Physics FMIPA, State University of Gorontalo". The research was motivated by a lot of students who do not know and realize their individual learning styles, so it takes a study to determine the learning styles of students owned Geography courses. The purpose of this study was to describe the learning styles of students of Geography in the Department of Education SI Uversitas Gorontalo State Physics. The method used in this research is descriptive method using the techniques of data collection is questionnaire or questionnaires and interviews and observation to support the research data. In a statement of research there are 46 items in the questionnaire with 77 respondents from a total population of 385 students and a sample of 20%. The results showed that students' learning styles courses Education Geography Department of Physics, State University of Gorontalo is auditory learning style on the percentage of auditory learning style is 45.48%. Thus, it can be said that the student of geography education in the Department of Physics, State University of Gorontalo have auditory learning styles.

Keywords: Learning Styles.