

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

In this chapter, I would like to present the conclusion of this research and also the suggestion in case of developing students' ability in writing narrative.

5.1 Conclusions

Relation to my topic of research which is focused in developing ability in writing narrative text, I applied cartoons film as media of teaching and learning. Based on the data findings, I took the conclusions;

Firstly, the students' ability developed after applying the media. It can be seen in their score from pre-test and post-test. The score of fourth indicators raised. The highest score was generic structure means that using cartoon films can help the students' in composing a story by following exact generic structure. The second highest was grammars and it means that by applying this media students were treated to make correct form of simple past tense as language feature of narrative text. Further, vocabulary and spelling also raised significantly.

Secondly, cartoon film is an audio-visual media that can be applied in teaching English. It can be used in teaching speaking, listening, and writing English. As the result, their writing product was better than before applied this media. It means that this media is useful to support the teaching and learning activity and develop the students' ability in writing skill.

5.2 Suggestion

Based on the conclusion above, I would like to offer some suggestion; they are: I should explain what a narrative text first before asking the students to make a narrative text. I also should to explain about grammar, simple past and generic structure. I should explore the students' idea by using cartoon film and ask them to write a narrative text.

Therefore, this research I recommended to English teachers to use various and interesting media in teaching activity thus the students will be more excited to follow the lessons. In teaching writing of a narrative text by using cartoon film in Senior High School, the teacher of English should be able to attract students' interest by giving interesting motivation such as media. By applying cartoon films as a media in teaching writing, the students' are more enthusiastic in learning English.

I hope that there will be many researchers who are interested in studying some other methods in teaching a narrative text writing effectively in the future.
