

Chapter V

Conclusion and Suggestion

In this chapter, I present the following conclusion and suggestion based on the result of the research findings and discussion as explained in the chapter IV.

Conclusion

Based on the explanation in the chapter IV, I can take some conclusion as follows:

- Firstly, Giving question and getting answer method is one of method in teaching reading that can improve students' ability in reading. It is found that the students score in post test is higher than score in pre-test. It is proved by the average of 9,24 from the students' ability in reading by using giving question and getting answer method before the treatment is given and while the average of 16,03 from the students' ability after the treatment is given.
- The second, the hypothesis of this research is "giving question and getting answer method can improve the students ability in reading" is accepted. It showed of hypothesis verification is $H_i = t_{list} < t_{count}$ or $H_i = 2,00 < 55,30$ it means that the hypothesis is accepted.

Suggestion

Based on the research of conclusion above, I present some suggestion as follows:

Method in teaching reading is very important for English teacher to make the students more interest in learning English especially in reading. So, it is better for the teacher to choose method that is suitable in teaching o make the students enjoy the learning process. One of the methods can be applied in teaching reading is giving question and getting answer method because this method can improve the students in learning reading and motivate them. So, the English teacher can apply this method.

For the students they more interested in reading so they can improve their vocabulary and they can understand what the author mean in the text easily.

Finally, I give the suggestion to the continuous research to improve and to complete the lacks of my research in order to be better and be useful for us in future.
