

Chapter V

Conclusions and Suggestions

Conclusions

Based on the finding of research, several factors that motivated participants to be a teacher are ability, intrinsic career value, fallback career, job security, work with children, prior teaching and learning experience, social influences, salary, social status and other finding that is educational background. The Most participant interested to choose teaching as a career because intrinsic career value. They love and like to teach English, it means their motivation come from their heart. It is important to have motivation being a teacher which influenced them to be enthusiasm teachers.

Some of participants motivate to be a teacher because they are sure they have a good ability in English teaching, they also think that teacher will be a good profession that has a good prospect at the future. Children also become motivation in teaching for some of participant who loves to be with children. Salary, social influences, social status and educational background also motivate the English department to choose teaching as their future career.

The result also presented not all the students interested to be a teacher. There are 3 reasons why the English department students did not interest in teaching activity. First teaching is busy job that has many responsibilities. Teaching also has many preparations that should fulfilled by the teachers. Second is ability, some of participants thought that they did not have good ability and knowledge about English teaching. And the last is they did not have an intrinsic motivation that came from their heart.

Suggestions

The researcher has some suggestions for the further researchers. They are as follows:

This study presented the find of motivation of English Department students. Therefore, it is recommended to the further researchers to make a research that is deeper from this research that investigates more about the motivation to be an English teacher. So the further researchers are expected to find more about factor of motivation of the students to be an English teacher.