

Chapter V

Conclusion and Suggestion

Conclusion

As the findings and discussion that already showed above explain that students' interpretation toward the theme still lack which is there are many of their interpretation classify into fair interpretation. It is proved also by the average of of students' interpretation from entire of the students also only classify into fair category.

However, the interpretations of students are improve and getting better than before which the students do not interpret the theme as the summary anymore. But, mostly students interpret the theme as a subject which subject substantively only constitute as the general thing of the story.

In addition, there are also the theme of students are almost precise but unfortunately it conveyed by mention the role of character in the interpretation so that it makes decrease the point of interpretation. The providing of supporting ideas also, students tend to explain from one part from the story.

Based on the data findings above, it also can be said that to discover the theme of story is not an easy way for the students because they have to think further before determine theme that they will choose. In this case, they should analyze well what approximately the exact theme that suitable with the story and certainly can represent the whole of story. The result of students' interpretation toward the theme above can be described that it's getting better than before which in the previous, students tend to interpret the theme as the conclusion or summary of the story.

In this case, find something meaningful in the story probably constitutes an easy thing to do but to make that suitable with the providing rule of fiction theory is rather hard to achieve. Students should more learn about how to analyze the theme of story properly.

Suggestion

In this study, there are some suggestions that want to be conveyed to the next researchers who are interested to take similar study. Hopefully, this study can give contribution in order to comprehend students' comprehension in analyzing literary work especially theme analysis. In addition, this study expected will give some inspiration and guidance for further researcher to do some studies better than this.

As the next suggestion, the issue about students' analysis toward literary work constitute a good object in a study in order to know students' skill in appraise western literary works. As we know, mostly studies that take literary field are engage the researcher itself to analyze the literary work directly. Therefore, probably doing a research by analyze especially students' analysis constitute something different from most study that relate with literature.

References

- (n.d.). Retrieved 12 31, 2013, from pascack.k12.nj.us:
www.pascack.k12.nj.us/Page/342
- Abrams, M. (1999). The Glossary of Literary Terms. Boston: Earl McPeck.
- Altmann, A. E., & de Vos, G. (2001). Tales, then and now : more folktales as literary fiction for adults. Colorado: A division of greenwood publishing group, inc.
- Childs, P., & Fowler, R. (2006). The Routledge DICTIONARY of Literary Terms. London & New York: Routledge.
- Cresswell, J. W. (2009). Research Design: Qualitative, Quantitative, and Mixed Methods Approaches. Thid Edition. SAGE.
- Davis. (2007, 08 10). How to write an analysis of theme. Retrieved 03 01, 2013, from <http://www.teachingcollegeenglish.com/2007/08/10/how-to-an-analysis-of-theme/>
- Elements of fiction*. (n.d.). Retrieved August 12, 2013, from svsp-pr.com:
www.svs-pr.com/stories/elements-of-fiction-1.pdf
- Hamalian, L., & Karl, F. R. (1978). The Shape of Fiction: British and American Short Story. New York.
- Head, D. (1992). The modernist short story: A study in theory and practice. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- i Rubric*. (n.d.). Retrieved 12 31, 2013, from rcampus.com:
www.rcampus.com/rubricshowc.cfm?code=W5736W&sp=true
- Kenney, W. (1966). How to analyze fiction. New York: Monarch Press.
- Marsh, N. (2002). How to begin studying English Literature. New York: Palgrave.
- Nurdiyantoro, B. (2010). Teori Pengkajian Fiksi. Yogyakarta: Gajah Mada University Press.
- Pujiharto. (2012). Pengantar Teori Fiksi. Yogyakarta: Penerbit Ombak.
- Saleh, M. Z. (2013). A Study on Student's Ability in Using and Identifying English Homophone and Homograph in Sentence . Analysis of the data, (p. 18). Gorontalo.

Satori, D., & Komariah, A. (2011). Methodology Penelitian Qualitative. Bandung: Alfabeta.

Stanton, R. (1965). An Introduction to Fiction. In Sugihastuti, Teori Fiksi Robert Stanton. Yogyakarta: Pustaka Pelajar.