

Abstract

Zein Nasir, Student ID 911 410 080. Skripsi, 2014. "The Influence of External Factors toward Students' Learning Motivation at Class XI of Social Sciences of SMA Negeri 2 Gorontalo on Economics Subject." It was supervised by Dr. Muh. Amir Arham, ME as the principal supervisor and Bobby Rantow Payu, S.Si, ME as the co-supervisor.

The research aimed to find out whether the external factors influenced the students' learning motivation on Economics Subject at Class IPS of SMA Negeri 2 Gorontalo or not. The method of research was quantitative method which systematically described the influence of external factors toward students' learning motivation. The population of research was all students amounted to 140 students and the samples were 35 students.

The research of result showed that there was a significant influence between external factors and students' learning motivation. It could be seen by the acceptances of research hypothesis which stated that external factors influenced students' learning motivation on Economics subject at Class of Social Sciences at SMA Negeri 2 Gorontalo. The research result showed that the external factors influenced the students' learning motivation as 32,49% and the remains were influenced by other factors that did not include in this design of research. Therefore, the research was accepted.

Keywords: External Factors, Students' Learning Motivation

