

Chapter V

Conclusions and Suggestion

This chapter presents the conclusion and suggestion as the final result of this research entitled “Racial Discrimination in Tate Taylor’s Movie “The Help””, consider to the data analysis and data interpretation in the previous chapter.

Conclusion

I can conclude that, as follows “The Help” movie tells the life of black maid as working in white house. This movie gives us lot knowledge about racial discrimination in around 1960s because this movie shows how the racial discrimination happened to black people work as maid in white house.

Based on the explanation in previous chapter, “The Help” movie shows a lot of racial discrimination that white people did to black people. There are 17 conversations contain racial discriminations that did to black people, 2 scenes that contain racial discrimination in public facilities. 17 data findings divided into 4 parts such as 7 data findings contains racial discrimination in separation of bathroom, 1 data finding contain racial discrimination in the bus, 8 data findings contains racial discrimination in social interaction, and 1 data finding contain racial discrimination in descent.

Mostly, in the data of finding and based on my analysis of this movie, I can conclude also, the bathroom is major issues of racial discrimination that did to black people. White people especially Hilly Holbrook think black people spread a disease, so it makes reason for white people to build a separate bathroom for black people. Not only have that, many racial discrimination showed in various kinds.

The racial discrimination happened in the public place like sitting separation in the bus, different door for come in to movie theatre, taxi just for the white, the white did not used same church with black people and so on. The racial discrimination also seen in some words, such as nigger, nigra, colored people, and colored, where those words means black people. The racial discrimination that happened to black based on the laws in that time. The law is Jim Crow Laws, where it talks about segregation or distinguish white and black people in everything.

Watched and analyzing this movie does not inform there is racial discrimination, but also, in this movie, black people give struggle to white people for the discrimination happened to black people. Book "The Help" show the struggle of black people against the racial discrimination. The struggle makes black people get what they should get as human like white people.

Suggestion

This research is to enrich the knowledge about literature especially movie. Giving out knowledge about racial discrimination is happened to our life. So, this research make us know racial discrimination is negative attitude and forbidden in our culture. With this movie, I hope this research make us appreciate anyone in our society even if they different with us. Hopefully, this research, can gives information and guidance for others researcher, to make a better research than this and I hope for readers can give suggestion for improvement the next study.
