

Chapter 5

Conclusion and Suggestion

This chapter shows the conclusion and suggestion of this research. The conclusion is to conclude the main points of this research. It is obtained from the analysis in chapter four. Meanwhile, the suggestion is advices for the variables that existing this research as well as to lead and guide other researchers who are conducting a similar study.

Conclusion

The conclusion of this research of tenor can be classified into three. Those are:

Firstly, in all three speeches, the representations of personalization are dominated by the representation of "I". All the representations of personalization in all speeches are used to create solidarity and intimacy between Obama and the audience by telling the personal stories and impression.

Secondly, in the representation of standing, in speech 1 and speech 3 Obama possesses more expertise and in speech 2, Obama uses more respectable source than possessing expertise. All the representations of standing are to persuade the audience to do an action about the topic and issues he discusses in each speech. In speech 1, Obama wants to persuade the audience in the topic about democracy and development. In speech 2, Obama wants to persuade the audience about the importance of living in peace and harmony, and to end conflict and misunderstanding among certain communities, religions, and countries. In speech 3, Obama wants to persuade the audience to keep building a good partnership, and recognize and notice the young generation's potency in leadership.

Thirdly, the representations of stance in all speeches are dominated with positive attitude. Furthermore, the modality in all speeches consists with more use of certainty. All representations of stance are to proof the audience to agree about contents of his speech bringing positive outcome and the representation of certainty has a meaning that Obama really wants to convince the audience that what he delivers is true.

TENOR IN OBAMA'S SPEECH

Suggestion

Tenor is interesting to be researched. It is because the ability to know how person with his status and position is able to effect someone or something through the power of language. This research stands as one of media to prove it. It is suggested to increase the amount and quantity of this research. Especially, from the different object, for the example the speaker or the medium of event he/she delivers it.

Furthermore, the researcher realizes that this research is still far from perfect and still need more improvement for better understanding in this study. It is expected that the next researcher who interested in the same study can take this as the guide in order to provide more qualified result of research. It is because knowledge is always and gradually developed and it is supposed to be developed.