

Chapter V

Conclusion and Suggestion

This chapter is present the conclusion and suggestion of the The analysis of the main character in Sandra Browns” Mirror Image” Novel .

Conclusion

Based on the above results, it can be concluded as follows.

Id character that desire Avery Daniels looked is personality who confidently and firmly in the establishment but sometimes Daniels was very emotional and felt chaotic and always patient with a way of life which he is not breathing fair. Id Daniel only when he has been identified to be someone else that reveals the planning of murder and wanted to reveal the true identity to the Tate Rutelge family. Then Daniels hopes to be accepted any plea apology for having pretended to live with the family of Tate and Mandy along with his extended family that has been pretending to be Carol Rutelge. His desire is shown in the happiness that is felt when all the family TateS know his identity and can accept it by explaining what the intent and purpose of pretense pretending be carol Rutelge. Another happiness felt by Daniels because of Tate is a man who is very responsible for ancestry or country.

Ego Avery Daniels looked at the crying, anxiety, suffering, struggle and patience Danils to remain the wife of Tate Rutelge full life-threatening.

Super ego that consideration Avery Daniels to accept the fact that life is not fair on him so Daniels had to leave everything friends, careers because of an error that ere identification on him. So that makes Daniels feel life is so cruel and should live her life as Carol rutelge, women who are so selfish that is full of life issues with the family Tate Rutelge. Carole's Rutelge life is very much different from the life that is in fact Daniels is a good person while Carol Rutelge very selfish and very evil never loved member family especially her husband and her son. With mistakes that have been made so that they incorrectly identified the officer makes Avery Danieals have to be careful in carrying out their daily lives always thinking based on conscience, be careful in the act, as well as Daniels patience in facing his new life so that his wishes will be achieved namely his desire to reveal his identity when planning the murder of Tate Rutelge will be revealed.

Based on the analysis of the id, ego, and super ego that appears on Daniels personality it can be concluded that Danils has a personality very firm on the establishment, patient, loving, caring, quiet, being based on conscience, consider everything before being implemented, prefers salvation one's soul than the wealth or position or career, and being able to control their emotions, and be patient or handed over all its destiny to the Creator.

Suggestion

Based on the result of the research, three are some suggestion for the next research who are interesting in doing similer research. This research will givw contribution to comphered analysis character in novel particulary using psychological approach. This research offers these suggestions for the community of english department, particularly for students and lectures, either from methodology and practice.

From methodology development this research presents analysis of psychological aspects which portray the character in a novel, which is focused on the three major components of psychology based on Sigmund Freud's theory. It is also possible for students of the English department to conduct further studies by analyzing character or other intrinsic and extrinsic factors. This research also might be used as a comparison when further research begins conducting a research in the same topic.

From practical development the psychological analysis of character in a literary work might be used in one of the discussions on psychology in literary criticism subjects. In this case, it will be more focused on the roles and the movement of the student. As well as using a novel as the object of analysis could be appealing to student interest in studying literature particularly in conducting research in literary studies. Because a novel has an interesting feature supported by sounds, setting, character as well as plot and the visualization of the story.
