Conclusion

Conclusion

As what the researcher have been explored about the use of connotation by the characters in Norbit movie, the use of associative and reflective meaning are mostly occurred. The first reason that the researcher can conclude is from the way how the characters expressions. There is a relation between the used words with what they connotes. These connotation is related to their emotion, individual and culture perspectives, and will. While the second though is sarcasm expression which used toward another character. This kind of expression is used by reflecting someone with the words that contain strong connotation. Using a words that have connotation is the way of expressing of character to emphasize, critique, implying, and to express what they feel. Furthermore, context analysis is very effective to find out the meaning of word. In this research, the causes of connotation based on its inner and external support are vary, depends on which one is most affected the cause.

As a language user, our perception toward language are vary with another. Some people has a different interpretation especially in expressing something which are taboo in the social. The movie, although it contains sexual and violent content, it taught us about having awareness when making a conversation with people. Not all words that we speak have the same sense with the other speaker. Each word nowadays carries its own connotation.

As a case of linguistics, this needs to be highlighted by Linguistics to approve whether some words among society become taboo by its connotation that they carried.

Suggestions

After exploring and analyzing the research, there are some suggestions that the research can submit. First, it is recommended for some teacher to teach the students that connotation is not simply implied meaning, however it is a meaning which still has a relation with its base meaning but it is already affected by people's feeling, emotion, experience, and culture. Second, in learning semantics, some students need to distinguish whether a connotation is a case of idiom or not. Third, for the next researcher who will conduct the similar research, it is important to explain the context that explains the process of how the connotation occurred.
