

CHAPTER V

Conclusion and Suggestion

This chapter shows the conclusion and suggestion of this research. The conclusion consists of the main point of research that is obtained from chapter four. Meanwhile the suggestion is advices for the variables that existing this research as well as to lead and guide other researchers who are interested to conduct the same topic.

Conclusion

This research is conducted to find out the types of repetition and investigate the function of repetition in political speeches made by Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton. Repetition is interested to be analyzed. It is because repetition is always seen negatively since its tendency to be repetitive, in other side when it is done stylistically and intentionally, repetition can be a strong persuasive media to attract the audiences into the position of the speaker. This research stands as a media to prove it.

There are three types of repetition found in political speeches made by Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton, those are Anaphora, Epistrophe, and Polysyndeton. Anaphora is the repetition at the beginning of successive clauses, the representation for words are “America”, “they”, ”we”, “he”, “love”, “have”, “imagine”, “Poland”, for phrases are phrase “cannot be allowed” and “my job”, and for clauses are “I’m the only one”, “drive them out”, “it matters”, “do it”, “if you believe”, and “we stand up”. Epistrophe is the repetition at the ending of the successive clauses, the representation of Epistrophe for words are “allies”, “lives”, “rights”, “dreams”, “plans”, “you”, “it”, “I”, “won”, “wasted”, “vote”, “same”, “no”, “black”, “our”, “religious”, and “together. And Polysyndeton is the repetition of the conjunction with the representation of words for Polysyndeton are “and” and “if”. For phrases are “has to be” and “to have a nuclear weapon”, and for clauses are “you can” and “join us”.

There are three functions of repetition happened at the political speeches made by Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton. Those are emphasizing, clarifying, and giving emotional function. The emphasizing function is an emphasis of the main idea that aimed to deliver by the speaker, in which it could help the listener to memorize its meaning, and help the speaker to deliver their main idea strongly. The emotional function could give a sense of togetherness, evoke emotion, and involves the listeners’ emotion by the style of the repetition, and the clarifying helps the speaker in clear their meant. These three functions of repetition generally help the speaker to achieve their intention by doing a repetition which further to make the audiences support their particular purposes.

Suggestion

The obstacle that faced during conducting this research is finding the specific classes to be the representation of the data. It is suggested to focused only at one particular type of repetition, it could be the repetition of words since there lots of repetition of word in political speeches.

It is also suggested to the next researcher to learn about the repetition of sounds and syllables. This different type of repetition is interested to be analyzed and conducted as the next research, because there has not been a researcher in this university since this research is conducted that analyze the repetition of sounds and syllables as the part of stylistic device.

Furthermore, the researcher realizes that this research is still far away from perfect and still need more and more improvement for better comprehension in this field of research. It is wisely expected that the next researcher who is interested to analyze the same study can take this research as guidance in order to provide a better qualified result of research. Thank you-
