Listening is the ways of picking up the information delivered by others in daily life, and also is the most important elements in studying foreign language. Several people have, however, problem in listening because they think that listening is the hardest skill to be mastered. To solve this barrier, teachers carry a big responsibility in their classroom. Teachers need to encourage students' participation through preparing an interesting strategy during listening instruction in order to attract students' attention to take part actively in listening. This study attempted to investigate the strategy used by teacher in teaching listening. Richard's theory of listening strategy to include bottom-up and top-down was applied. Through utilizing qualitative descriptive analysis, this study involved three listening lecturers of English Department of Universitas Negeri Gorontalo where they were observed and interviewed. The analysis of data revealed that teachers used mostly top-down process activities in listening class.

ABSTRAK

Nazla Ainun kasim, 321 414 093, 2018, "Analisis Strategi Dosen dalam Pengajaran Menyimak" Skripsi, Jurusan Pendidikan Bahasa Inggris, Fakultas Sastra dan Budaya, Universitas Negeri Gorontalo, Pembimbing pertama Sri Rumiyatiningsih Luwiti, S.Pd., M.Pd. dan pembimbing kedua Nurlaila Husain, S.S., M.Pd.

Menyimak (listening) merupakan cara mendapatkan informasi yang disampaikan orang lain di kehidupan sehari-hari dan juga merupakan unsur terpenting dalam mempelajari bahasa asing. Namun, beberapa orang masih menghadapi masalah saat proses menyimak, karena mereka berpikir bahwa menyimak adalah keterampilan tersulit untuk dikuasai. Jadi, untuk mengatasi permasalahan tersebut, para dosen memikul tanggung jawab besar di dalam kelas mereka. Para dosen perlu mendorong partisipasi mahasiswanya dengan cara menyusun strategi yang menarik saat memberikan instruksi dalam menyimak agar dapat menarik perhatian mahasiswa untuk berpartisipasi secara aktif dalam kegiatan menyimak tersebut. Penelitian ini berupaya untuk mengetahui strategi yang digunakan oleh para dosen dalam pengajaran mata kuliah menyimak. Teori Richard mengenai strategi menyimak yakni strategi bottom-up dan top-down digunakan dalam penelitian ini. Melalui penggunaan analisis deskriptif kualitatif, penelitian ini melibatkan tiga dosen dari Jurusan Bahasa Inggris, Universitas Negeri Gorontalo, lalu ketiganya diobservasi dan diwawancarai. Dari hasil analisis data, terungkap bahwa sebagian besar dosen menggunakan prosesaktivitas top-down saat mengajar kelas menyimak.
