

Chapter 5. Conclusion and Recommendation

This chapter consists of the conclusion relating to the research problem analysis contained on the previous chapter, then followed by the suggestion that provide recommendation for subsequent researcher.

Conclusion

The major goal of this research was to describe the types of language style used by Jimmy Fallon in The Tonight Show talk show. This study has used the theory of Joos (1967) to analyze the types of the language style. Furthermore, the result of this research has shown that the host of the talk show that is Jimmy Fallon used two types from five language styles proposed by Joos (1967). Those are consultative style and casual style.

Even though, there is a different degree occurred in the use of each type. It can be seen when consultative style is used in BTS and Barack Obamas' video. However, the consultative style that Jimmy uses when talking to BTS members tends to intimate style, which it is not used in the Barack Obama video. Moreover, the casual style that is used in Madonna and Eddie Murphys' video tends to intimate style, while it did not occur in Evan and Jillians' video.

Furthermore, based on the research finding and discussion that has been presented, it can be seen that one of the more significant findings in this research is the used of casual style. It is because Jimmy wants to make his conversation with his guest not awkward when speaking one another. In the same way, casual style is used when the situation is relaxed; also telling a joke is included one of the characteristics in casual style. Therefore, this style was become the most dominantly in Jimmy's talk show because he wants his guest feel comfort in speaking as they speak to their friend. Additionally, the situation in the talk show was fun, so that influence the conversation becomes relaxed. Hence, they prefer using casual style. In addition, it happened because of Jimmy's personality, which he prefers utilize casual style when doing conversation.

In the same way, it shows that Jimmy did not use a language style based on the guest's profession; he uses a language style that he comfortable with. It means that this research finding is already answering the reason why the researcher chooses the guest by their profession.

Additionally, this study used sociolinguistics analysis approach to explain the language used in society. It is because this study concern to analyze language that people used, which sometimes has difference function from each user. Also, this is what the researcher found when analyzing the data. In one of the videos shows that Jimmy used some signal intimacy such buddy and guys when greeting BTS as his guest at that time. People used these words to greet or address to their friend. Nevertheless, Jimmy used those words when he address BTS members, which not his close acquaintance or friend.

Overall, the participant, the setting and the function become the important things that have to know when analyzing these types of language style. Besides, Joos's (1967) theory teaches how style in language can be distinguished based on someone relationship with others.

Recommendation

After presenting the conclusion, this research would like to give several suggestions as the following:

For the readers

In order to know what types of language style that someone used, the crucial thing that should understand is the using of words or phrase in their utterance. Furthermore, the meaning that contain in their conversation; are they addressee one another with rank or use the last name, what are they talking about, call someone with their nickname, or perhaps their conversation contain a slang. If people know these things, then it will help them to know the types of language style that someone used.

For further researcher

This research only focuses in host of the talk show. The researcher hopes for further researcher can investigate the data from other sources and combining with other theory. For example, the types of language style used in literary work such as novel and short story. Therefore, the researcher hopes the analysis of language style can do in another case. This is because the development of language style is very interesting to be studied over time.
