Conclusion and Suggestion

Conclusion

To understand the poetry in detail, the readers have to know the elements in a poem. There is one of elements in poetry is theme. Theme is a particular meaning that might identify in poem. Theme in poetry has to relate the poet's imagination concept. Instead of theme is a specific characteristic that is related to the poet. Based on this research analysis there are four kinds of theme that found in five poems by Anne Bradstreet who was the first poet in America, such as love theme that I found in "To My Dear and Loving Husband" this poem talk about love that she has to her husband. She described her love to her husband was so deeply and no one can complete it. Also she said, love that she has more than whole mines of gold and like rivers that cannot give satisfy for the thirst that she has. So that, theme of this poem is an endless love. Religious theme that I found in two poems, firstly: "Deliverance From Another Sore Fit" this poem talk about the anguish and nobody can remove it except God. And also gratitude to God who is always present in every situation both of in sadness and happiness. Secondly: "Contemplation" this poem talks about the existence of God. Which God created the universe was perfectly. Living creatures, including humans, animals, and plants shall remedy praised as a sign of gratitude to the creator. And all of that there is no eternal, will definitely return to the creator too.

Furthermore, I can conclude that the theme of those poems above is almighty God and only He is worthy to be worshiped. Nature theme that I found in “A Letter to Her Husband, Absent Upon Public Employment” in this poem, she uses the symbolism of nature by refers to her husband as the sun. When summer is gone, winter soon arrives. This statement refers to when her husband with her it was always summer and she was happy. Otherwise, when her husband is leaves home to work, everything will be cold and gloomy, in other words she felt sad and lost. So that, the theme of this poem is the anxiety at the turn of the season. Social critics theme that found in “The Prologue” this poem talk about how society criticized women’s accomplishment and should be doing other things such as writing poetry. Which the roles of women should be doing the household chores rather than writing poetry. And she as a women who was disagree with this roles, she will be fought what the women should be doing based on their ability. Furthermore, the theme of this poem is the freedom to express the ability.
